The motor of sartorial change

As this magazine marks the shipment of your new seasonal materials (already at, or headed towards, your doorstep), the countdown to autumn and winter has officially begun. But fear not: the next 100+ pages are sure to get you informed and excited. As always, our teams have been busy behind the scenes preparing new, expertly curated collections from the world's top fabric mills together with new product updates, improvements, models, FitTools and design options.

With colder temperatures in mind, our emphasis has been on bringing together the best of comfort and warmth to help you create effortlessly refined, luxurious garments that easily translate to both casual and formal settings.

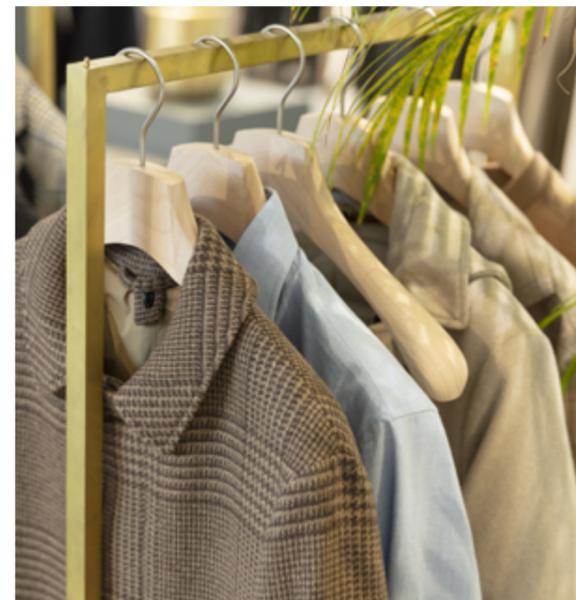

Top on the list of noteworthy developments are your three brand-new knitwear qualities — pure cashmere, wool & cashmere, and cashmere & silk — making for a total of four qualities to choose from (see p. 6). Now available in three different knit types — single yarn, double yarn, and the new 'half English rib' for a refined-yet-robust texture (in pure cashmere or wool & cashmere) — you also have the option of a new, athleisure-inspired closure (polo with zip). Looking for a special finishing touch or some added warmth? You can now order your own custom-made beanies and scarves to match or complement the rest of your ensemble (p. 14), textured with the half English rib and available in pure cashmere and cashmere & wool. No matter what you choose, your knitwear is sure to be one of the easiest pieces in your wardrobe to dress up or down this winter — one of its many unique selling points.

Another item perfect for layering is your informal jacket: as outerwear in autumn or for extra insulation under your (over)-coat in winter. This season brings you more pocket styles to mix and match (p. 17), plus the new possibility of selecting any (fancy) lining (see p. 33). For your sartorial connoisseurs and discerning dressers, we're adding a brand-new unconstructed handmade make, chockfull of the same artisanal details you've come to love on your traditional styles, such as handmade buttonholes and handstitched lining at the armholes, shoulder seams and cuffs (p. 18). With so many of your seasonal fabrics being well suited to the informal jacket's style and functionality, and virtually all of your suit and jacket fabrics available for choosing as you see fit, we can't wait to see what you and your customers come up with this season.

As a rule when the elements get rough — or when attending formal winter affairs — a man's shoes require extra thought and attention. For blustery autumn days, your brand-new informal-chic last, the city loafer (p. 34), is effortlessly smart under both a formal suit and a casual jeans look. Or try your new plain toe loafer, offering just the right balance of elegance and nonchalance, made extra classy in combination with your new velvet material (p. 69). How else to brave the cold in comfort and style as you navigate between your winter engagements? Any of your new, luxurious (over)coat fabrics in warm blends of wool and cashmere or super-soft pure camel are sure to do the trick (p. 38).

After a 'catch-up summer' full of weddings, concerts and increased travel, we predict (and hope!) this coming winter will see its own share of seasonal merriment by making up for lost holiday festivities, galas, winter weddings and more. Use our festive and winter-wedding style guides on pages 65-74 to get plenty of tips and inspiration to help your customers create a look that's truly them for their upcoming special events.

'We're proud to note that custom-made is more relevant than ever and your options are only expanding, both in terms of men's sartorial freedom and your range of products.'

We're proud to note that custom-made is more relevant than ever and your options are only expanding, both in terms of men's sartorial freedom and your range of products. Plus, for our North American customers, our first-ever showroom in NYC will soon be up and running, offering extra services and on-site showcases of our products and collections. We hope to see you there!

In the meantime, and wherever this finds you, you can start preparing your shop for the coming season by ordering your seasonal samples whenever you're ready. And don't forget your instant ready-made series: delivered within 4-6 weeks and orderable 365 days a year, 24/7, with just a few clicks. # Knitwear

No matter the temperature, knitwear has become a basic staple in the modern man's wardrobe. Why? Because knitwear is more than just comfortable, it also hits the sweet spot between casual and formal: easy to dress up or down with any type of garment. Pair it with a classic suit for a business meeting or jeans for a weekend getaway.

At least as importantly, (y)our knitwear programme offers something for every individual and occasion.

Here's the whole scoop in a nutshell:

- . Expanded from last season, you can now select from four different yarn qualities: pure cashmere (in 33 colours), wool & cashmere (23 colours), cashmere & silk (17 colours), and extra-fine merino wool (29 colours). In your choice of two different weights (single-ply yarn or double-ply yarn, both with a smooth finish).
- . A moderately textured half English rib (available in pure cashmere or wool & cashmere only).
- . From turtlenecks and mock necks to crew necks, polos and various zip styles, including your new polo with zip: all are 100% customisable with your choice of sleeves, pockets, buttons, monogram and more. Including an adjustable sleeve length and adjustable length of the body, for a better fit.
- . Plus, a new '½ waist & hip' FitTool, to adjust the width of the body and hem — live from October: Made on demand for you and your customers using exclusive 3D knitting machines for a luxurious seamless look.
- . Now also available with a classic finishing touch, a beanie and/or scarf, textured with a half English rib in pure cashmere or wool & cashmere. Crafted to match your knitwear or sold separately.

Knitwear yarn qualities

In time for the coming season, we've added three new (blended) yarn fibres to get you excited for autumn and winter: pure cashmere, cashmere & silk, and wool & cashmere. Add to that the extra-fine merino wool that started it all, and you and your customers can now choose from a total of four different knitwear qualities.

Ranging from soft (merino wool) to softer (wool & cashmere, cashmere & silk) to softest (pure cashmere), each quality consists of breathable, 100% natural fibres whose antibacterial, odour-repellent properties make for minimal required washing. Choose 'half English rib' for a dash of texture, 'single yarn solid' for an elegant look and lightweight feel, or 'double yarn solid' for added warmth, a little more body and a slightly more relaxed vibe.

Pure cashmere

A quality synonymous with luxury and comfort, our ultra-fine cashmere fibres come only from the fleece of goats found in particular areas of Inner Mongolia, where high altitudes and freezing temperatures result in cashmere of the highest possible quality. With special care, a cashmere garment will last for many years, actually improving with age. The softest and warmest of (y)our four knitwear qualities, cashmere fibres are highly desired in part for their inner air pockets, producing a warm, breathable and lightweight layer of insulation ideal for autumn and winter.

Available knit types: single yarn solid, double yarn solid and half English rib.

Available colours: 33

Best suited to: colder temperatures.

Popular models: full zip, half zip, turtleneck, mock neck and cardigan.

Also available for beanies and scarves.

K10048

K10085, K10090 &amp; K10078

Cashmere & silk

Introducing a lavish blend of 70% cashmere and 30% silk, composed of carefully selected, durable Mulberry silk fibres from China and the ultra-fine fleece of cashmere goats raised in select areas of Inner Mongolia. Combining the drape and radiance of silk with the soft, luxurious qualities of cashmere for (y)our most lightweight knitwear quality and a sleek, plush feel. Beware of possible transparency in single-ply light colours and launder with care to prolong the lifespan of the extra-fine fibres. Effortlessly sophisticated with a tempered shine and wearable all year round.

Available knit types: single yarn solid and double yarn solid.

Available colours: 17

Best suited to: moderate to warm temperatures.

Popular models: polo, V-neck and crew neck. Also a good match for short sleeves.

Wool & cashmere

Ideal for the height of winter and requiring the least amount of washing respectively, this high-quality blend of 90% ultrafine Australian wool and 10% Mongolian cashmere is particularly suited to everyday use in cold temperatures thanks in part to its warm hand feel. Offering more insulation and softness than pure merino wool while remaining extremely durable, breathable and perfectly refined.

Available knit types: single yarn solid, double yarn solid and half English rib.

Available colours: 23

Best suited to: colder temperatures.

Popular models: full zip, half zip, turtleneck, mock neck and cardigan.

Also available for beanies and scarves.

K10014, K10010 &amp; K10006

Extra-fine merino wool

A much-loved option for knitwear, (y)our extra-fine merino wool from Italy ensures a smooth, supple touch and classic charm. Boasting both natural elasticity and superior resistance to stains, wrinkles, odour and grease, the popularity of extra-fine merino wool can be credited to its reliable mix of utility, softness and breathability: cool in summer, warm in winter and perfect in the in-between seasons. Beware of possible transparency in single-ply light colours and launder with care to prolong the lifespan of these extra-fine fibres.

Available knit types: single yarn solid and double yarn solid.

Available colours: 29 (new this season: ivory and dark sand)

Best suited to: all seasons.

Popular models: full zip, hoodie, polo with buttons, polo with zip and crew neck.

Also a good match for short sleeves.

(Y)our knitwear care guide

We all want our garments to last as long as possible, especially when we've invested in quality. Help your customers maximise the lifespan of their knitwear with these nine useful tips:

01. After wearing your garment for a whole day, let it rest on a flat surface for approximately 24 hours before folding it for storage. Of course, you can occasionally wear your garment two days in a row, but allowing the fibres time to recover between wearings is key to their longevity.
02. Remember that wool and cashmere are naturally resistant to stains, odour and grease, which means that, by observing tip #1, you can further extend the life of your garment by washing infrequently. Extra bonus: less washing = more environmentally friendly.
03. When you do need to wash, turn your garment inside out first and use lukewarm water (not cold, max 30 °C). Handwashing is by far the best, using plenty of water to rinse. You may also choose to wash your knitwear in a new-generation washing machine on the handwash or wool cycle if you feel confident doing so, spinning only at low speed.
04. Use a neutral or mild cleaning agent (preferably a special wool detergent or cashmere shampoo) as enzymes in normal detergents will damage the fibres' natural oils. Err on the side of less detergent when possible.
05. After washing, pat your clothes dry with a towel without twisting, and/or lay your garment flat on a towel and roll it up with the garment inside, pressing gently to expel extra moisture. Then, allow your garment to dry on a flat surface in its correct shape in a well-ventilated area, away from heat sources (especially direct sunlight).
06. Always store your knitwear folded on a shelf or in a drawer. Knitwear should never be stored on a hanger as this can stretch the garment out of shape.
07. Keep a good moth repellent in your closet or drawer at all times, avoiding direct contact between the repellent and your clothes. For knitwear you don't wear in the summer, use the reusable bag your garment came in for storage to keep it extra safe.
08. When necessary to remove wrinkles, e.g., after wearing or unpacking, lay your knitwear out on a flat surface or drape it over a hanger in a steamy bathroom. If needed, press the dry garment inside out with a damp cloth on top using a warm iron (make sure it's on the wool setting).
09. When your garment is still new, some excess fibres may appear, also known as 'pilling'. Allow the wool two or three washes to settle and, in the meantime, carefully remove any pilling manually with a soft brush or appropriate comb.

Informal Jackets

Mix a lot of comfort with heaps of style and what do you get? Relaxed tailoring, perfectly embodied by (y)our informal jackets: super lightweight without canvas, wider shoulders for extra comfort and a looser fit, plus an effortless look and distinctive feel. Perfect for layering in winter or as outerwear in autumn.

Choice of fabric is everything when it comes to keeping you warm and comfortable during the colder season. For fall and winter, we recommend the informal jacket in luxurious alpaca blends, super-soft stretch corduroys, casual winter moleskins with stretch for added comfort, and rich, warm 100% cashmeres. Likewise, any of your wool (blends) with natural stretch will help you maintain just the right amount of heat while giving you plenty of room to move. And, for those rainy days, your range of water-repellent stretch tech-fabrics are sure to have your back.

Whatever your customers' style, they can have their own informal jackets crafted in virtually any of (y)our suit and jacket fabrics, using their own unique combination of design options (we have expand your range of possibilities) to create a one-of-a-kind piece.

This season we're adding:

- . More pocket options to mix and match.
- . The option of 'no vents' on the back.
- . The possibility of selecting any of our linings for the back wings and/or sleeve lining — only for option 'half lined' (important note: we've renamed your lining style options, as of now: Half lined = Shoulder-lined and Unlined = No lining).
- . For the connoisseurs, we're adding a new unconstructed handmade make, chockfull of handmade sartorial details.
- . New FitTool: arms backwards (to adjust the placement of the sleeve cap, identical to traditional jacket FitTool).

Customise your informal jacket

New pocket styles

8844

Side-seam pockets

Customise your informal jacket

New unconstructed handmade make and sartorial details

As every connoisseur and discerning dresser well knows, craftsmanship and attention to detail form the root of traditional tailoring. Hence, we're adding a new unconstructed handmade make for your informal jackets, brimming with handmade sartorial details.

Pick stitching

Handmade pick stitching is both more refined and more visible than machine-made pick stitching, valued for its characteristic beauty. The stitches rest on the fabric as single rows of tiny dots.

Flower loop

A flower loop, or boutonnière loop, is a handmade detail found only on high-end and pre-1950s suits. Its purpose is purely functional: to keep a flower in place on the lapel of your tuxedo or wedding suit.

Chest pocket

A dignified eye catcher: pockets made by hand seem to almost float on the fabric, without a single visible stitch. A mark of true craftsmanship.

Lining at the armhole

A handmade armhole stitch is looser than a machine's, providing the wearer with more freedom of movement — almost as if there were stretch added to the lining.

Label attachment

A hand-stitched label speaks without screaming: the cross stitches used to attach the edges of the label to the lining accentuate the sartorial prestige of both the jacket and the brand.

Buttonholes

Handmade buttonholes are the result of expert artistry. Crafted by the hands of a skilled tailor, they can truly make a jacket stand out from the rest.

Bartacks

A stitch used to reinforce vulnerable points. When done by hand, this small detail used on the outer pockets and vents will set your jacket apart from those with clean machine-made bartacks.

Lining at the shoulder seam and cuff

Also attached by hand to ensure extra comfort and movability.

Personalise your informal jacket

New lining options

Up until now, you've only been able to complete your informal jackets with the 'best matching' solid or Bemberg lining. Happily, we're now able to extend the options for your shoulder-lined informal jackets' back wings and sleeves to include any lining you'd like, including every colour of your solids and Bembergs or a fancy print. For equal amounts of fun and style: inside and out!

Greater comfort, better performance

Formal round Blake: shoe improvements

Last season, we improved (y)our sneakers' comfort and performance. This season, we did the same for the Blake make of (y)our formal round last. Here's what we refined:

A softer interlining for more comfort

Improved midsole for greater flexibility

Seasonal Outerwear collection

An overcoat or coat can quickly become a man's most trusted and treasured garment. Often being the most visible item of any look, the perfect balance (for you!) in terms of practicality and style can easily translate to a sartorial confidence boost. Make your statement while keeping warm this winter in one of your six new suave seasonal (over)coat fabrics.

New improvement and design options from this season onwards:

- . Double-breasted peak lapel: to give your overcoat a more luxurious, sartorial look.
- . Classic collar shape (available from October): allowing for more room to wear with a scarf, your new overcoat collar will be dubbed 'classic' and your existing collar 'sporty'.

Improvement: improved collar fusing, providing slightly more body for an extra clean shape.

How to layer this winter?

If dressing for winter were a mantra, we think it'd be simple: 'layers, layers and more layers'. But what to layer and how? Thankfully, more than ever, the choice is truly yours. Help your customers exercise their sartorial freedom — and brush up on their seasonal style — with these three winter layering ideas.

Make it classy

Add a luxurious, double-breasted overcoat with peak lapels to your 2-piece suit and white Oxford button-up, finished with dark-coloured silk tie. Complete the look with a scarf in cashmere & wool to protect your neck from the elements.

Overcoat: OCS0109
 2.5 button jacket: 5732
 Shirt: SH00141
 Tie: TS730
 Trousers: 5732
 Shoes: SDE06
 Scarf: K10035

Add a cosy knit

For example, in pure cashmere to keep you warm and comfortable without the risk of overheating. Layer it under a utility or safari jacket, and finish the look with a beanie and lightweight suede shoes.

Safari jacket: Cotton 036
Mock neck knit: K10048
Drawstring trousers: Cotton 036
Shoes: SDE02
Beanie: K10054

Keep it flexible

With a soft knit hoodie, jersey drawstring trousers and a technical coat for casual weekends. Easy to pair with your favourite sneakers and a pure cashmere beanie and scarf for the ultimate feeling of luxury.

Coat: OC0057
Hoodie knit: K10006
Drawstring trousers: 5685
Shoes: SUS10
Scarf: K10095

Shirt Collection

As the base of your winter outfit — literally the closest layer to your body — every man wants his shirt to be breathable, comfortable and appropriate, all at the same time.

Because deciding ‘what goes with what’ is probably the most challenging part of the dressing process, we recommend encouraging your customers to buy at least one shirt together with the rest of their outfit: no more morning guesswork when it comes to getting dressed! And because a shirt-swap alone can create a whole new look, two shirts are (of course) always better than one.

Catch a first glimpse of (y)our FW22 shirt additions on the following pages — sure-fire allies on even the coldest of days.

Update: the end of face masks

As pandemic restrictions have eased around the world, our face masks will no longer be available for order from July onwards.

Winter wedding

(Y)our guide for the big day

With winter weddings poised to make a comeback, new grooms and their entourage will be looking to you to help them make the big day complete. For gentlemen in need of direction, the question may arise: where do you start? First things first, of course: is there a dress code? If not, flip the page and learn how to help your customer freewheel his own winter wedding look.

Winter wedding looks

No dress code on the invitation? No problem. The coolness of autumn and winter invite the use of a seasonal colour palette, layers and formal silhouettes. Although the sky is (obviously) the limit, these three colour-based themes — each offset with fine white accents and textural details — offer an excellent point of departure for anyone headed down the aisle this season.

Most importantly: confidence can 'sell' just about any look, so finding a fit and style that makes your customer feel classy and comfortable should always (of course) be the number-one priority.
